100 LIVES LOST IN EXPLOSIONS.

Tragedy Occurred in a New Mining Town, Near Which Point There Are Three Volcanoes, and at First It Was Supposed the Deaths Were Due to Volcanic Blast.

It Is Believed that a Great Slope of Coal Was Loosened by the Explosions and Tumbled Into a Tunnel in Which the Miners Were at Work, Killing More Than 100 of Them.

VANCOUVER, B. C., April 29.—Three terrible explosions occurred in the coal mines at Frank, B. C., to-day, and more than 100 persons were killed. Telegraph and telephone communication with Frank was cut off for several hours and various rumors found circulation. One most generally believed being that the tragedy was due to a volcanic eruption, as there are three volcanoes in that section. These are the Crow's Nest, Castle Mountain and Newman's Peak craters.

Frank is a new mining town a few miles east of Fernie, B. C., where a terrible explosion occurred a few months ago. It is almost on the boundary line between Canada and the United States.

About two years ago H. L. Frank, of Montana, began developing the coal fields, driving in a tunnel for about two miles. Above this tunnel the coal was stoped out for nearly eight hundred feet. It is supposed here that the explosion allowed this wall to choke the tunnel, imprisoning the miners. The output of Frank's mine is estimated at from 500 to 1,000 tons of coal per day.
